OUT OF SIGHT LITTER BOX

As the only indoor potty option for cats, wouldn't it be nice to eliminate the gruesome smell and sight of the litter box? The features of the Out of Sight Litter Box (a self-contained two-story litter box cabinet) address these problems and offer a few more benefits for cats and their owners.

Here's the scoop...first of all, it does a superb job of hiding litter mess. The sight of an unsightly litter box is not exactly a flattering asset to any room. Even if you use a hooded litter box, it still lacks creativity and drains your room of personality and style. Besides, a litter box doesn't need to be in plain view for everyone to see. The Out of Sight Litter Box cabinet, 20 inches wide x 24 inches deep, will fit nicely into any corner of a room and it is appealing and decorative. It can be disguised to look like a "functional" cabinet by placing a plant or lamp on top of it. No one would be the wiser...except you and your cat. Sometimes I even forget that it is a litter box... until it's time to change the litter.

Secondly, the cabinet includes TraxTurf® mats which are made of a soft and flexible astro-turf-style material that traps and holds the litter from your cat's paws that would otherwise be tracked all over your home, possibly spreading that "stale smell" of used litter as well as germs and bacteria.

Thirdly, and a big plus for you, is the design of the cabinet. The litter pan is located on an elevated platform (or the second floor) inside of the cabinet, which means you don't have to kneel or bend down to change or scoop the litter. You simply lift the top lid to gain easy access to the litter pan. By now you may be wondering how the cat gets to the litter pan if it's elevated. Don't worry, this will be very easy for your cat to use. She enters the cabinet from the lower level, through a large 9 x 11 inch opening. Then the cat walks in and hops up 10 inches to the upper level where the litter pan is located. The cabinet comes with a litter pan or you can use any standard size pan.

Finally, the "mini maze" that your cat travels to get to the litter pan, helps keep curious dogs and children away from it. This is a big plus for you because you don't have to worry about those who don't belong in the litter getting into it. It's also a bonus for your kitty who enjoys a lot of privacy and solitude when she's "doing her business."

There is a small storage compartment on the lower level for bags, extra litter and a scooper to put easy cleanup within reach.

The Out of Sight Litter Box comes ready to be assembled with thorough instructions. The only tools needed are a Phillips screwdriver and a hammer. If you are not a fan of assembling products, I would recommend seeking a helpful partner to assist you.

Paul Pettys (aka "Cat-man-doo-doo") is the Rock Hill, SC inventor of the Out of Sight Litter Box.
